MALCOLM W. FOLD'S FORECAST.

The Well Known Athlete Describes the Events and the Entries and Gives His Views as to the Prohable Victors in the Annual Amateur Championship Games.

The amateur championship games at Analostan island, Washington, D. C., Oct. It, will be an unusually important event in the world of athletics. There will be nineteen events on the programme, includ-ing six distances at that running, two at burdle racing, two at walking, one at bi-cycling, three at weight throwing, three at jumping and two at tug of war. The great rivalry among the most prominent athletic clubs of the United States will be settled for the ensuing year on this day, and these organizations are leaving no stone unturned to strengthen their teams. In the 100 and 230 yards runs the most prominent contestants will be Luther Cary, Fred Westing, Mortimer Remington, of the Manhattan Athletic club; John Owen, Jr., the present champion at these two distances, and Harry Jewett, of the Detroit Athletic club, and perhaps C. H. Sherrill, of the New York Athletic club. These are the fastest men in the United States, and the championship at both these distances will not go outside of them. It is thought that Cary, Owen and Jewett have the best chance of coming to the front.

Remington and J. S. Roddy, of the Manhattans, and W. C. Downs and W. C. Dohm, of the New York Athletic club, are the most formidable contestants in the 440 yards class. The chances are that either Downs or Remington will be the victor. These same men, with George S. Tracey, of Halifax, and J. W. Moffat, of the Montreal Amateur Athletic ciuo, will combat for honors in the 880 yards run. Tracey won the American championship at this event in 1887, and has not competed for the title since. Tracey, Moffat, Downs and Dohm will battle the fiercest for the event this
